JAMES BONNER FOUND DEAD IN OFFICE ROOM

Real Estate Dealer, 55, Hangs Self from Open Door Transom.

ATTORNEY FINDS BODY

Faced Financial Difficulties; Had Saved Man's Life 20 Years Ago.

James S. Bonner, 55, well-known Marion real estate dealer, hung himself in his office at 115 north Main street this morning. Financial difficulties are believed responsible for the suicide.

The body, hanging from a transom, was discovered at 7:35 a. m., by John H. Clark, attorney with whom Bonner shared office rooms. Bonner hung himself with a clothesline brought from his home. He looped one end of the rope through an open transom over an open doorway joining his office with that of Clark & Arter. With the other end fastened around his neck in a slip-knot, he stepped off a chair.

Twenty minutes before the body was found, Harry O. Crawbaugh saw Bonner walk from his parked automobile to the office, carrying a clothesline.

"Good morning, Jim. Going to hang out a washing?" Crawbaugh inquired.

Arranges Papers

"Yes," Bonner replied, starting upstairs to his office. Bonner carried the morning paper upstairs with him, placed it on his desk, and arranged some legal papers left for Clark. He left no note of explanation.

When Clark entered the office, he saw the body immediately, but did not recognize it as Bonner's. He hurried downstairs, solicited the aid of two passersby, and returned to the office to untie the rope with their aid. He then recognized Bonner.

R. G. Smallwood, county treasurer, walking near the office, was also called in by Clark. Smallwood called Dr. J. W. McMurray when it was learned that Coroner Kenneth D. Smith was not in Marion. Dr. McMurray called an ambulance after an examination revealed there was no possibility of reviving Bonner.

Bonner's friends say he was being pressed for security or payment on notes and today was to choose between bankruptcy or mortgaging his home.

Saved Man's Life

Nearly 20 years ago, Bonner saved the life of a prominent Marion insurance man who started to commit suicide in the same office in which Bonner died. The insurance man had closed his office and opened the gas jets. Bonner arrived in time to save him.

A native of LaRue, Bonner came here in 1912, going into partnership with Elmer Schoenlaub. He was prominent in Masonic circles.

Bonner was born, Sept. 23, 1876 in LaRue, O., to James and Nellie Price Bonner. His father was a native of LaRue, and his mother, who is still living in LaRue, is a native of Essex, near there.

His Masonic affiliations began in LaRue when he joined LaRue Lodge No. 462, F. and A. M. He was given the degree work of Marion Chapter No. 62, R. A. M. March 26, 1907, and the degree work of Marion Council No. 22, R. and S. M., May 15, 1907. The degrees of Marion Commandery No. 36, Knights Templar, were conferred on April 30, 1908.

Funeral Sunday

Mr. Bonner was a member of Aladdin temple and of the Scioto Consistory in Columbus. He was a member of Epworth M. E. church and of Marion Lodge No. 462, Knights of Pythias.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elyse Harger Bonner to whom he was married Jan. 19, 1904, in LaRue, a brother, John Bonner of 174 Hudson court, and a sister, Mrs. James Rush of LaRue.

The funeral will be Sunday at 2 p. m. at the home at 478 Delaware avenue, with Dr. C. E. Turley, pastor of Epworth, officiating. Burial will be made in the LaRue cemetery.

SUIT BROUGHT TO CONFISCATE DO-X

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—Isaac Schafran and Jacob Thaler began suit in federal court today to have the German flying boat DO-X confiscated on the ground that the owners, operators and builders infringed on patents the plaintiffs hold.

General Motors Corporation is named as one of the defendants. The suit, besides demanding confiscation of the giant flying boat, asks for an accounting of profits, a permanent injunction against further infringements on the patents the plaintiffs say they hold, and damages amounting to three times whatever profits the DO-X may have made.

20,000 EXPECTED TO ATTEND COUNTY FAIR

Day and Night Programs Will Be Given; Exposition Opens Tuesday.

Arrangements have been practically completed for Marion county's greatest agricultural exposition—the Marion county fair—which opens next Tuesday to continue four days. Before the week ends, more than 20,000 persons will have seen the most elaborate program ever presented a fair crowd in this county, fair officials estimate.

With the attractions greater than ever before and the admission price reduced to 25 cents, there is no reason why the fair attendance record should not be broken this year, Carl W. Sifrit, fair board secretary, said. Only the weatherman can keep the fair from being a success.

Fair visitors will see three afternoons of harness racing for purses aggregating $3,200. Hundreds of exhibitors will match displays for premiums totaling $4,000.

Rodeo Booked

Officials of the Marion County Agricultural society expressed the belief that they have the best available attraction for the night fair programs. The King Bros. rodeo, one of the largest troupes of its kind on the road, has been booked to appear nightly. The rodeo is made up of 35 persons and 65 head of livestock. The rodeo program will include such features as trick riding, dramatization of stagecoach days and travel in covered wagons, fancy shooting and roping.

The buildings and fairgrounds will be in better condition to house exhibits and to receive fair visitors than any time in the last decade, Secretary Sifrit said. Many improvements have been made in the display buildings. The grounds have been groomed, and the race track has been given careful attention.

4 SENTENCED TO STATE PEN

Clem and Lawrence Reiter, Brothers, Face One to 15 Years.

JURIES CONVICT THREE

Jack Rhodes and Tony McNeal Get from 10 to 25 Year Terms.

Four men were sentenced to Ohio penitentiary by Judge George B. Scofield yesterday and today for terms aggregating from 22 to 80 years. Three of them had been found guilty by a petit jury this week of charges of robbery and breaking and entering. The fourth pleaded guilty.

Lawrence Reiter was found guilty after trial yesterday of a charge of breaking and entering the Ernest Stoner filling station at Waldo. The jury deliberated a short time, returning a verdict of guilty early in the afternoon. The case was prosecuted by R. M. Wilhelm, county prosecutor. Reiter was defended by W. Dexter Hazen.

Clem Reiter, brother of the convicted man, and facing a similar charge, pleaded guilty rather than stand trial for the same offense today. He was immediately sentenced to one to 15 years in the penitentiary.

Lawrence Reiter was sentenced to one to 15 years in the penitentiary by Judge Scofield this morning. Jack Rhodes and Tony McNeal, both colored, found guilty earlier this week of robbing Jack Geyer in Lincoln park early in August, were sentenced to 10 to 25 years in the penitentiary.

COLLINGS' WIDOW HEARD BY CORONER

Story Indicates She Permitted Abduction To Save Husband and Child.

By The Associated Press

HUNTINGTON, N. Y., Sept. 25—Mrs. Benjamin P. Collings today in her first public recital of how two men boarded the Penguin and murdered her husband in Long Island sound Sept. 9, indicated that she deliberately permitted them to abduct her believing that, by so doing, she might save her husband and child.

As the assailants placed her in the canoe, she told Coroner William B. Gibson, she saw a boat approaching the Collings' drifting cruiser, so she went with them quietly—hoping that, with their attention concentrated on her, her husband and daughter might be rescued.

Her testimony also revealed for the first time publicly that 4-year-old Barbara Collings was awake during the struggle on the Penguin and saw the slayers tie her father's hands before they crushed a milk bottle down on his head and threw him into the water.

"Leave my papa alone," she said Barbara called out to them.

Mrs. Collings appeared to be under a severe strain as she told her story. Part of the time she kept her eyes closed, and twice she appeared to be about to collapse.

LEGION ACTION PUTS DRY ISSUE AT FOREFRONT

Prohibition Seen as Probable Important Factor in 1932 Campaign.

SEN. BULKLEY HAS PLAN

Would Have Democrats Take Stand; Views on Legion Vote Vary.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—A series of prohibition rumblings, precipitated in the capital by word of a new federal beer inquiry, appeared likely today to echo into 1932.

With the American Legion's vote in favor of a referendum lending fresh impetus, reaction ranged from praise and condemnation to a proposal that a resubmission plank be placed in the 1932 Democratic platform. Added was a forecast from a dry senator of a lively beer fight in the coming congress.

Senator Bulkley, Democratic anti-prohibitionist from Ohio, suggested that his party agree upon submitting the Eighteenth amendment to the people rather than argue upon the merits of prohibition.

Senator Walsh of Montana forecast agitation for beer legislation in the next congress. Known as a constitutional authority, the western Democrat, a dry, gave as his opinion that repeal or modification of the Volstead act would not constitute nullification of the Eighteenth amendment.

Beer Data Collected

Meantime, there was fresh ferment in the disclosure by Secretary Hyde that the effect upon the farmer of legalizing beer would be ascertained.

A government official reported that some beer data already had been gathered by the department of agriculture. These figures, he said, indicated legalizing of brewing might do the farmer more harm than good in that the market for dairy products might be reduced. Data was shown on the increased sale of these products with the coming of prohibition.

Moreover, it was the stated opinion of another high federal executive that talk of legalizing beer—whatever the effect—would never go beyond the conversational stage.

Reactions to the American Legion's referendum proposal were numerous. The Anti-Saloon league said in a statement the vote did "not reflect the sentiment of the

LEGION CONVENTION COMES TO CLOSE

"Has Not Taken Wet Side," Is Opinion of New National Commander.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 25—The American Legion entered a new legion year today with a new commander and a revised program, which included advocacy of a nation-wide referendum on repeal or modification of the Eighteenth amendment.

The legion closed a colorful and busy four-day convention yesterday with one of the most stormy sessions of its history as delegates wrangled over the prohibition resolution and a proposal that the organization ask immediate payment of the face value of bonus certificates.

The latter resolution was defeated as a majority of the delegates followed the advice of President Hoover, Director Hines of the Veterans bureau, and other officials who asked that consideration be given to the condition of the national treasury.

The legion's action brought its aftermath of statements, including one from the newly-elected commander, Henry L. Stevens of Warsaw, N. C., that he does not believe "the legion has taken the wet side." The legion simply "called for full expression of the opinion of the citizenry of the country," he said.

Laval To Visit Hoover.

PARIS, Sept. 25—The French cabinet today approved Premier Laval's acceptance of an invitation to visit President Hoover in Washington. The premier said he would not talk about the trip until after he and M. Briand returned from their visit to Berlin. He indicated, however, that an invasion of Canada by the Ku Klux Klan would not be on the list of topics.

Daylight Saving Time To Cease Sunday Morning

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—Daylight saving, which has been in effect since the last Sunday in April, will cease for this year on Sunday morning.

When the clock strikes 2, the hands (figuratively) will stop and remain so for 60 minutes, giving back to daylight savers the hour they lost when the clocks were moved forward an hour last summer. Most persons will change their timepieces when they go to bed Saturday night.

New York City, as well as most communities in the eastern states, will be back on eastern standard time when the Sunday bells—alarm clock, breakfast and church bells—ring.

CHOICE MADE BY GUTHERY

Names Reinhart To Serve as State Conservation Director.

EXPECTS O.K. OF WHITE

Appointment Is Latest Step in Tilt with Conservation Council.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 25—William H. Reinhart of Sandusky, was appointed state conservation director today by State Director of Agriculture I. S. Guthery. He succeeds J. W. Thompson of Lima, who leaves the office Oct. 10.

Guthery told Reinhart to report here about Oct. 1, so that he will become wholly familiar with the duties of the office before he assumes charge. The position pays $5,000 a year.

Expects Approval

In the notification letter the director of agriculture told Reinhart he felt certain that the appointment would meet the approval of Governor White and the conservation council. He said he felt Reinhart's long business experience had fitted him for the office and that he would "play the game square to the best interests of conservation."

Guthery yesterday told the conservation council he intended making the appointment in view of a ruling of the attorney general in which he held the power was vested in the director of agriculture to appoint the head of the department without the approval of the council.

At the same time Guthery submitted two names to the council for their recommendation, if they desired, but the council returned full responsibility to the director by refusing to recommend and saying the matter was taken from its hands.

Authority Given Guthery

Thompson resigned several months ago at the request of the council which claimed it had been given authority to operate the department as it saw fit by the governor. Later, however, Guthery obtained the attorney general's ruling placing the appointing power in his office.

The appointment of Reinhart today followed a guardedly-stated protest against Gutherys promise to name a conservation commissioner of his own choice, sent to Governor White today by two leading members of the conservation council.

Put in mild language and giving no indication that resignations will follow, the objection was sent to the governor by A. F. Moon of Conover, chairman of the council, and Dr. H. C. McClelland of Piqua, vice chairman.

Workingmen Fed at Mine To Prevent Possible Trouble.

By The Associated Press

ATHENS, O., Sept. 25—The automobile of two Ohio National Guard officers, sent here as observers for Adjutant General FRANK D. Henderson, was stoned at No. 6 mine of the Sunday Creek Coal company at Millfield today as they attempted to pass through picket lines formed by striking bituminous coal miners.

Colonel John S. Shepler and Lieut. Loren Winders, the occupants, escaped injury. Shortly afterward a stone was thrown through the rear glass of the automobile of Pete McKinley, superintendent of the mine, and struck his shoulder. He was not injured.

Declines To Comment

Colonel Shepler said he was going to the Murray City mine of the Sunday Creek company today to speak to the strikers there. He made no comment on the stoning.

Officials of the Sunday Creek company said they intended keeping the 60 miners still working at Millfield near the mine shaft. Coal and food will be sent them so that it will not be necessary to take them through picket lines.

Oral Daugherty, labor superintendent for the company, told the pickets he would not attempt to take any new miners in and should he decide to do so later the sheriff would be notified 10 hours in advance and the strikers could obtain their information from the county official.

Deputies Clear Way

Andrew Wainscott, assistant mine superintendent, was stopped at the picket lines when he attempted to take in a truck loaded with food. Deputy sheriffs were summoned to force passage through the lines.

Jay Skinner, 23, of Gloucester, said by officers to be a striker, was arrested on the picket lines on charges of intoxication and carrying concealed weapons. A deputy sheriff said he threw away a pistol as he approached, but claimed he found a piece of lead and pistol cartridges in his pockets.

Pedestrians Warned Off Streets in Hong Kong Following Disorders.

By The Associated Press

GENEVA, Sept. 25 — Japanese forces in Manchuria are being withdrawn to the fullest extent permitted by the requirements of the safety of Japanese residents and their property, the League of Nations council was informed today in an official note from the Japanese government.

The greater part of Japanese troops in Manchuria already have been withdrawn to the railway zone, the note said, and now are concentrated there.

Thus the Japanese government has accepted in large measure recommendations of the league council for withdrawal of troops. It is believed, however, that Japan will resist any suggestion for the appointments of a neutral military commission to make an inquiry in Manchuria, although the note represents the Japanese government as "profoundly desirous" of ensuring a peaceful settlement as quickly as possible "by negotiations between the two countries."

was swayed by every breeze that blew? She was suddenly frightened and very deeply ashamed.

In her mood of self-condemnation she found a wealth of unflattering adjectives which applied unerringly to herself, and for a time she tortured herself by searching them out and parading them. At last, however, she shook her head impatiently, realizing that accusations and regrets could do no good. What had been done was done and could not be recalled. Only the events of the future lay somewhat under her control and she must decide immediately how she was to attempt to shape them.

First of all she must see Freddy. It was obvious that, to use his own words, she owed him at least that much. She also owed herself at least that much. She must see him and must make up her mind whether or not her feeling for him had remained unchanged. Beyond that the path was clear. If she found that she still loved him, she would marry him. She would explain to Peak, and then go away with Freddy to Kansas City or wherever he decreed. Explaining to Peak would be difficult, but it would have to be done. Peak would understand that she was doing the only possible thing.

Sam was conscious of a feeling of relaxation, of relief in the thought of a decision made. Now there was nothing to do but wait for tomorrow.

She got to her feet, picked up her evening wrap, and was just about to turn off the lamp on the table when the door from the kitchen opened and someone spoke her name.

"Miss Sherrill?" It was Mary, the maid. Mary was in nightgown and wrapper and her eyes were heavy with sleep. "I've been waiting up to tell you that Mr. Aldersea has been trying to get you on the telephone all evening. I didn't hear you when you came in. I must have dropped off for a minute."

"Thanks, Mary," said Sam automatically. "Mr. Aldersea? Do you mean my stepfather?"

"No." Mary shook her head and stifled a yawn. "It was young Mr. Aldersea. He seemed awful anxious to talk to you. He called about six times."

"Really?" Sam frowned. "Did you tell him where I was?"

Mary looked mildly reproachful. "I couldn't. You didn't tell me where you were going to be this evening."

"That's right, I forgot. Stupid of me. Well, thanks Mary. I'll call him right away. Good night."

"Good night, Miss Sherrill. I thought you ought to know. He seemed so anxious—so kind of excited."

Sam wondered idly, as she gave Nelson's number to the operator, what had happened. Nelson did not telephone very often and he was not easily excited. She hoped if there was news that it was good. She could do with a little good news.

After a protracted interval central informed her disinterestedly that the number did not answer. Sam was immediately uneasy and vaguely alarmed.

Someone would surely be in the apartment at this hour, unless something very unusual had occurred. Had Martha been taken ill? Perhaps she was in a hospital. Perhaps Nelson needed her badly. She must find out quickly what was the matter.

Five minutes later she was in her little car on the way to town. She was able to drive swiftly, for the wind-blown streets were deserted. Most of the houses were dark, and even the big apartment house where Nelson and Martha lived showed no light except in the vestibule.

Sam rang Nelson's bell for a long time but there was no answer. It was evident that there was nobody at home. Where could they have gone? What should she do? She was still standing, undecided, beside the long line of letter boxes, when the glass door from the street was suddenly pushed open and her half-brother came striding in.

"Nelson!" Sam needed no more than a glance to know that something was very wrong. Sonny Aldersea's face was pale and haggard and there was a wild light in his eyes. "Nelson! What is it? What has happened?"

Sonny stopped short in his tracks and stared, almost as though he did not recognize her. Then he licked his lips. "It's Martha," he said hoarsely. "It's Martha!"

"What about Martha?" Sam demanded sharply.

He gulped. "She's disappeared," he said slowly, as though trying to convince himself of something that could not be true. "I can't find her anywhere. She's gone away."

"Oh!" said Sam. "What happened? Did you two have some kind of foolish quarrel?"

They went up to Nelson's apartment, and on the way he gave her a broken, disjointed account of the affair.

It seemed that there had been no quarrel. To the contrary, since moving into the apartment their married life had been progressing much more smoothly. Nelson said that he had been happy. He had thought that Martha was happy too. She might have been a bit moody and quiet these last few days, but not alarmingly so. Even their breakfast that very morning had been a perfectly normal meal. He had worked all day at the Express office and had come home at the usual time expecting to find Martha busy with the dinner.

Instead, Martha was not there. No lights had been turned on anywhere in the apartment and there was nothing cooking on the stove. On the little table between their beds he finally found a letter. The letter said that Martha was going away and was not coming back.

"She said that I was too good for her—that she was dragging me down!" Nelson shouted the words. He pointed his finger at Sam, as though somehow he could hypnotize her with the sheer force of such a preposterous statement. Then he sank himself on the chair. "Did you ever imagine it? She said I was too good for her. Why—"

"Nelson," Sam said, "you must be crazy."

Suddenly Nelson's face was convulsed as though he were about to cry. "I'm afraid I'm mad," he said shudderingly. "I'm afraid she's dead."

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

The Chinese Victim Is Rushed to the Farmhouse.

BILL straightened his shoulders as if he were receiving an accolade of knighthood when Harry Underwood, reminding him that he had been on the track team at school, enjoined him to show what he could do in a sprint. Without waiting for any further instructions from the big man who was holding the slight figure of the almost lifeless Chinese in his arms, Bill set off down the path with the easy effortless stride of the practiced runner. Both Dicky and Mr. Underwood let their eyes rest on him for a second and then nodded to each other as if satisfied.

"He'll do," Mr. Underwood said.

"Yes, nice style," Dicky agreed. "How can I best help you there, old man?"

"If you'll get in the back seat and be ready to steady me as I climb in, I'll be able to manage him all right," Mr. Underwood replied.

Although I did not turn my head, for I had my hands on the wheel ready to start the moment Mr. Underwood should give the word, I could see in the mirror with what deftness and tenderness these veterans of the World war, used to such horrible injuries that this must be only an incident, lifted the inert form and settled it again against Mr. Underwood's chest.

Starting Back

"All right, Lady Fair," Mr. Underwood said softly, although we all knew that the man in his arms could hear nothing. "You can beat it now. I know you will have to jolt him somewhat, but dodge all the holes you can."

Never have I driven with such a feeling of tenseness. At every uneven spot of ground I found my whole body bracing with the clutch and brake to keep the car steady, but was conscious that no matter what my care the wounded body must be jolted cruelly. I did not dare to turn my head, but I spoke softly to Hank at my side.

"Ask them if they think he is conscious and can feel this jolting."

He repeated my message and Harry Underwood answered in tones distinct enough for me to hear them.

"No, he doesn't hear or feel a thing, poor devil!"

"That being the case"—through Dicky's drawl I read a tenseness of nerves akin to that of my own.—"suppose you let us get the low-down on this. What happened, when, where, how and why?"

"All right, Hank, suppose you chant the litany of the good reporter," Mr. Underwood replied, "Begin at the beginning, son."

"Aw!" Thus bidden to loquacity, Hank was tongue-tied, and Dicky prompted him.

"Where were you when you first saw this man, Hank?"

"Just at the end of that row in the cornfield," Hank said hesitatingly, "but we'd seen something before."

Hank's Story

"What?" Dicky prompted as the boy stopped, much as if the mechanism which wound his speech had run down.

"We found a place over in the woodlot where the grass was all flattened down and—" Hank lowered his voice fearfully—"there was something on it we thought was blood."

"Yes," Dicky said encouragingly, as the boy stopped again. "I suppose you looked around to see if there were any tracks leading away from that place?"

"Yep!" Hank brightened perceptibly. "That's just what we did do, but whoever did it hadn't dragged the man. They must have carried him, for we couldn't find any place where there was a mark of anything dragged and they must have been like the Indians in their way of covering up their own tracks, for we only found one or two steps."

"Then how did you find the body?" There was incredulous admiration in Dicky's tone, and Hank's shoulders evidenced an unconscious swagger.

"We guessed, of course, that what they carried away was the Chinese fellow you wanted to find and said was in such danger from the other fellows. So we reckoned that they wouldn't carry him very far, and we sort of planned a square that took in the part of the woodland where we found the trampled grass and the cornfield. We could see each other by sticking our hats up above, so each of us took a side and walked down looking toward each other about six feet and then went back again to the other side. We kept on doing this, and if we had kept it up till we met each other in the middle, we'd seen every bit of the square. But we hadn't gone more than twice up and down before I saw Bill's hat waving round and round. That was the signal we agreed on if we found anything," Hank broke off to explain.

He gave an involuntary little shudder and his voice trailed off into silence as he remembered the gruesome sight which had met his eyes when he joined his brother.

"You kids ought to have an extra Boy Scout medal or something or other," Dicky said admiringly. "Don't bother to tell us any more. We know that Bill sent you and stayed himself until Uncle Harry got there, but I do want to know this. At any time, did you see or hear anything that made you think those other Chinese were watching you?"

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TODAY has been Friday all day, and it has rained nearly all the time. I got up almost before it was daylight and let Jubilee down by his rope and put on my short britches and new suspenders and went downstairs to milk the cows. I have got the slickest suspenders in the bunch, but what is the good of red suspenders if they cover a breaking heart? I went down and got the pail and went out to the barn and was milking the cows when the bunch came, and then I gave Jubilee a few squirts of milk and went in the house to strain what was left, and my mother said she was supprized because I went to bed so early last night. She said everybody else was too, and that Younies had brung me an apple, and she gave it to me. It was a big red one.

My grandfather said to watch out when the women started to giving me apples, because that was what got Adam into trouble. Then my mother told them to let me alone. And then she said if I would like to keep the apple all I would have to do would be to stick it full of cloves as it would hold and set it up on the mantel or anywhere and it would keep forever. I told her she could have it. I didn't want it. She said she would put it up in the pantry where I could find it if I was to change up my mind, and then she kissed me and told me to run along with my cows and not be late to school, so I did, and on the way back we saw Mush and his dump truck and it was empty and he told us to pile in and he would take us the rest of the ways to school, so we did, and he made Hopper who is our crip sit up on the seat beside him, and that ought to have told me to watch out, but I am not so very brite.

I was setting on the side of it with my arms folded looking stern and unhappy, and the first thing I knew I heard Banty holler "Tooboo!" and there we were in front of Younions and her mother were standing by the gate while her mother told her goodbye so she could go to school, and just as we got right spang in front of them the truck was going slow and Mush pulled the handle and hollered "All out!" and up went the truck and we all except Hopper were spilled out right in front of Younions, and she laughed and clapped her hands, and then I pushed Banty off my face and I began to laugh and Jubilee began to jump around, and we all went to school with Younies, and I turned a few cartwheels.

When I got home from school I found the apple on the shelf in the pantry and a fruit jar full of cloves by the side of it, and nobody bothered me when I went out and took it out to the barn. I have got it so full of cloves that none of the apple shows at all. I wonder how my mother found out that could be done. She is pretty brite sometimes. We went swimming in the creek when we went for our cows.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, Sept. 26.

THE planetary configurations for this day point to a rather crucial state of affairs, with employment in jeopardy or attended by friction, or in harmony, and progress and finances hazardous. However, the mind will be found shrewd, penetrating and the judgment sound, thus prudently bridging over difficult places and ultimately wrestling success from ill-favored circumstances.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year taxing their resources and abilities to surmount obstacles. Employment is in jeopardy, the finances not promising and favor with authorities or superiors critical. However, the mind will be found shrewd, dependable and the judgment sound, well able to meet matters prudently and sagaciously if allowed to rule. A child born on this day should have excellent mental qualities, sound, prudent and practical, thus surmounting much that may thwart and imperil its affairs.

Notable Nativity: Charles Bradlaugh, reformer.

Peterman was wounded in the war and died soon afterward as a result of his injuries. His widow married Adam Leck, another veteran, in 1865. Leck died in 1897. The following year, his widow wedded Adam Titterington. Her third soldier-husband died 22 years ago.

Mrs. Titterington, who resides with a daughter here, has five children, 28 grandchildren and 42 great-grandchildren. She draws a pension from the government as the widow of her first husband.

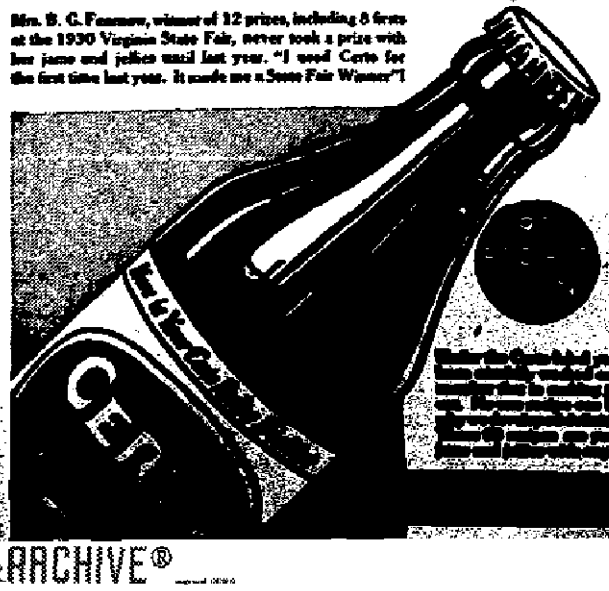
MAKE Grape Jelly IN 12 MINUTES!

Mrs. B. G. Fauver, winner of 12 prizes, including 8 firsts at the 1930 Virginia State Fair, never took a prize with her jams and jellies until last year. "I used Certo for the first time last year. It made me a State Fair Winner"!



Follow this amazing short-boil method that reduces actual boiling time to one minute. Saves 2½¢ on every glass you make. Gives better tasting jelly. Plenty of good fruit now on the market.

GRAPE JELLY .... delicious tasting, flavorful grape jelly .... made in less than 12 minutes! This is the season to make it.

Impossible as it seems, any woman can accomplish this now—no matter how limited her jelly-making experience may have been. Certo and the Certo recipes make this magic possible!

With Certo, you see, only ½ minute's boiling is required. A few minutes to bring to a boil, add Certo, boil hard ½ minute ... and your jelly is done. In 12 minutes it is child's play to have it cooling in the window.

Because of the ½ minute boil no fruit juice boils away! As a result you usually get half again more glasses from the same amount of fruit. Often you save 2½¢ on every glass.

And Certo eliminates the chance of costly failures. If you follow directions, your jelly or jam will have a fuller flavor and a daintier texture than you've ever known before.

Put up grape jelly. Put up grape jam, too. With Certo it is easy.

Certo is a pure fruit product—a concentrated fruit pectin. And pectin, you know, is the substance in fruits which makes jelly jell. Certo is a product of General Foods Corporation. At all grocers.

How to remove it without rubbing—scrubbing—scouring

An easy way to conquer this and 2 other hard jobs

Would you like to know how to get bathtub rings out of the bathtub without having to go through the drudgery of scrubbing and scouring? Today, I am going to tell you how to do this . . . and to make 2 other hard jobs easier . . . how to cut dishwashing time in half; how to avoid faded, gray-looking washings.

To do this, you use a preparation called Climalene that you can get for 10c a package at any grocery store

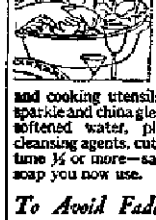
Thousands of women are using it and taking the time it saves them to shop, go to the movies, and otherwise enjoy themselves.

It makes it possible for you to do all your own work, and still have lovely hands. For it is made from the same elements as costly Bath Salts and thus really acts as a beautifying agent to the hands.

Banish Bathtub Ring

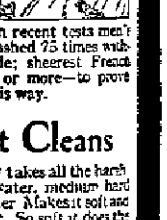
Add a tablespoonful of Climalene to your bath water. It makes the water soft as summer rain. Soap makes a quick, rich lather. After the bath—just rinse the tub. That is all. There just isn't any "high-water" mark. No scrubbing—no rubbing.

To Make Dishes Sparkle Like Jewels



Add one teaspoonful of Climalene to a dishpan of water, use only ½ the amount of soap you now use. It instantly cuts the grease from dishes and cooking utensils, makes glassware sparkle and china gleam. The Climalene-softened water, plus certain bland cleansing agents, cuts your dishwashing time ½ or more—saves ½ or more the soap you now use.

To Avoid Faded, Gray Washings



Use 2 tablespoons of Climalene, and ½ the usual amount of soap. Clothes emerge soft, spotless, utterly without fading. For soap fade, and soap eat are ended this way. In recent tests men's blue shirts were washed 75 times without noticeable fade; sheerest French hosiery 100 times or more—to prove the blandness of this way.

Why It Cleans

Climalene instantly takes all the harshness out of Lake water, medium hard water, and hard water. Makes it soft and gentle as rain water. So soft it does the work with ½ the soap you use now. At the same time, due to certain bland cleansing agents, it instantly DISSOLVES all grease, dirt and grime, and thus cuts your working time 5/6 or more, in washing, cleaning and in the dishpan.

Harding Gridders Clash with Columbus South Tonight

PRESIDENTS SET FOR OPENING KICK-OFF OF SEASON AT 8 P. M.

Bohyermen Intent on Turning in Good Start Against Bulldog Eleven.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

INTENT upon acquitting themselves in a creditable fashion in the first game of the 1931 season, the Harding High school's warriors of the sod will invade the lair of the Columbus South High Bulldog today at 8 p. m. The engagement will be the first of the season for Harding and the second for the Capital city eleven.

Despite the fact that South has already chalked up a rather lopsided victory over Marysville and also that Harding is none too well prepared for such a stiff struggle, the Presidents are expected to put up considerable of an argument against the Blue-Gray outfit. Harding has a bunch of hard-fighting boys representing her on the gridiron this fall, probably the hardest fighting lineup to wear the Red and Black of the Church street institution in several seasons. It will be a dogged and determined aggregation that attempts to halt the scoring rushes of Columbus tonight.

The starting lineup that Coach Dewey Bohyer has named for the game tonight will be composed of eight veterans and three rookies. The starting forward wall will average 176 pounds. The backfield will tip the scales at an average weight of 147 pounds.

Bohyer has intimated that he may do considerable experimenting tonight against South in an effort to discover his strongest possible combination. Bohyer is not going to purposely threw away a chance of victory, if such chance presents itself, just in order to let everyone have a chance to show his wares, but he is not forgetting that the coming N. C. O. pennant struggle means more to Harding than a victory over a non-league foe.

Here are the probable starting lineups for the game:

Harding	Pos.	Columbus S.
McDaniel	LE	Milner
Clay	LT	Petestel
Jevas	LG	Dornsife
Williams	C	Caine
Martin	RG	Frye
Ling	RT	Courtney
Hagan	RE	Strausse
Morgan	QB	Coverdale
Guthrie	HB	Jones
Keller	HB	Hoppe
Lindsey	FB	Logue

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

Having floundered through several lean seasons on the gridiron, Harding High school tonight will launch what it is fervently hoped will be a campaign which will regain for the school some of that glory and prestige which was formerly associated with the institution. The members of the school's team have an uphill fight ahead of them. A team that is consistently turning in victories has little difficulty in drawing the support and cheers of the student fans and other followers of the team. However, a team that has been having more downs than ups over a period of a few years will find the cheers and plaudits of these fair weather fans suddenly turned into loud and continuous razzberries.

* * *

Viewed from a purely personal standpoint, it looks like Harding will find the going too tough against Columbus South tonight. Chances of victory are exceedingly slim. However, regardless of the final outcome, the game is certain to be a battle. It has been some time since Harding has been represented by a harder fighting bunch of boys. And that's something. It is a great pleasure to gloat over winning combinations and I firmly believe Harding should support more of these than it has in the last few years but nevertheless, a team that battles from start to finish deserves the plaudits of the fans, win, lose or draw. Let's go Harding!

* * *

Old Man Injury, the bugbear of football camps, seems to be working overtime at the practice grounds of the Bucyrus Redmen this fall. Alex Kish recently lost Bob Black, a promising candidate and now he has lost Kaplanoff, a regular tackle, for the rest of the season. Kaplanoff was knocked out of competition this week when he suffered a fractured ankle in an automobile accident enroute to the practice field. Besides these two being permanently out, Kish has a number of others on the sidelines nursing troublesome, though minor hurts.

* * *

Harding High, thus far, has been fortunate in escaping injuries of consequence. Several players have suffered minor bumps but to date Paul Hunt is the only regular who has been the victims of an injury of consequence. Hunt is being bothered considerably by a trick knee, injured last year and hurt again this fall. This injury is likely to relegate Hunt to the bench in a large share of Harding's games this fall.

Injuries last year kept several of Harding's players from demonstrating their real worth to the team. Perhaps the Presidents will be more fortunate this year.

Regatta Sunday.

The third annual jubilee boat regatta will be held at O'Shaughnessy dam near Columbus Sunday, Sept. 27. The regatta is being staged in connection with the annual gateway jubilee week of Columbus. There will be seven events in the meet, starting at 1:30 p. m. No admission is charged for those inces-

LEFTY GROVE TURNS IN 31ST VICTORY OF YEAR FROM BOSTON

Hildebrand Hurls Cleveland Indians to 6-4 Win Over Detroit.

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Not content with leading the Philadelphia Athletics in their greatest pennant-winning season in the American league and becoming the first left handed pitcher ever to win 30 major league games, Robert Moses Grove evidently is out to set a record for the boys to shoot at for a good many years.

Grove already has tied one American league record by winning 16 straight games earlier this season and seems to have clinched a new major league pitching mark as he won his thirty-first game of the year yesterday. So far the southpaw king has lost only three games against his 31 victories, giving him an average of .912.

In winning yesterday's game from Boston by a 9 to 4 count, Grove gave only five hits to gain a record for the season of allowing only 241 safeties in 286 innings, and by fanning four men he brought his strikeout total, which leads the league by a wide margin, up to 169.

Oran Hildebrand, who came up to the Cleveland Indians from Indianapolis only a short time ago, bested the veteran Earl Whitehill of Detroit to win his second victory, 6 to 4. Hildebrand allowed only eight hits.

Big Jim Elliott of the Phillies turned in an enviable performance in the only game on the National league schedule as he held the Pittsburgh Pirates to five hits to win his nineteenth victory of the season 5 to 1.

A flock of exhibition games for the benefit of the unemployed kept five other major league teams busy and netted something over $75,000 for the jobless of New York and St. Louis. The results were something of a triumph for the American league representatives. The St. Louis Browns walloped Burleigh Grimes, ace of the Cardinal staff, for six runs in the fifth inning and downed the National league champions 7 to 4.

At New York, the Yankees took the best claim to the city championship by downing the Brooklyn Robins 5 to 1 in the second half of a charity double header after the Giants had defeated Brooklyn 3 to 1.

THREE BIG 10 TEAMS TO OPEN SATURDAY

Chicago, Indiana, Minnesota in Warm-Up Games Against Smaller Schools.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 25—Chicago, Indiana and Minnesota, which will act as ushers for the Big Ten football season tomorrow, went through their final pre-season maneuvers today, while the other members of the Western conference looked on.

The return to eligibility of Don Birney, a veteran kicking and passing halfback, promised to make Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg's job of picking two University of Chicago squads a little easier, while Fritz Crisler of Minnesota, and Billy Hayes of Indiana, made last minute revisions to fill in spots vacated by injuries. Stagg planned to use two different squads instead of making them up and letting everyone play a part of both the Hillsdale and Cornell contests.

Harold Anderson, a veteran end, will not be with Minnesota tomorrow when the Gophers face the North Dakota Aggies and Ripon in a doubleheader.

Too Many Classes

He has a heavy classroom schedule and has been troubled by an old knee injury. Pete Somers, the leading quarterback candidate and passer, also may be out of action tomorrow, because of an injury to his right hand.

Adolph Sabik, a sophomore halfback who had been regarded as a certainty to start for Indiana against Ohio university, will be out because of an injury, but it is likely that he will return in time for the Notre Dame game a week hence.

Practice scrimmages will be held in the other camps. Michigan will play a game length affair with the freshmen, and Bob Zuppke's Illinois squad will make its first public appearance against the yearlings. A search for reserves is keeping Noble Kizer busy at Purdue and tackles are his especial worry. The Boilermakers have a huge squad of capable backs, and some of them may find themselves working in the line before the active season begins.

To Meet Yearlings

Northwestern's regulars will get another workout against the freshmen who will use Nebraska formations. The Wildcat line still does not satisfy Coach Hanley, causing him to wonder what will happen when they meet Nebraska.

Bill Carroll, a substitute last season, apparently has earned himself a place in the Ohio State backfield and he is figured as a starter along with Hinchman, Holcomb and Vuchinich. Injuries to four leading tackle candidates has retarded work at Iowa, and Coach Burt Ingwersen has shifted his material about seeking men to fill the places.

Wisconsin's backfield appears to have hit a real gait and things are looking up in the Badger camp.

THE BEST ROUTE

For those individuals of Marion who are planning to attend the football game tonight between Harding and Columbus South High at Columbus the following route to the stadium is suggested as the easiest and shortest.

Follow straight down south High street in Columbus about one and one-half miles past Broad to Deshler avenue. Turn left on Deshler and continue straight for about five or six blocks to the stadium.

COLUMBUS WINS TWO IN FIGHT FOR THIRD

Red Birds Only One Game Behind Indianapolis in Association Race.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 25—There still is life in the American Association campaign with Indianapolis, Columbus and Milwaukee battling over third place.

The Indians and Red Birds have a theoretical chance to win second place, but Kansas City needed only one more victory to clinch the runnerup spot, and appeared likely to pick up before the campaign ends Sunday. Columbus won a doubleheader from Louisville, 10 to 6, and 5 to 1, yesterday while Indianapolis was taking an 8 to 0 drubbing from Toledo, to become one game away from third place.

Milwaukee clung to its slight chance for finishing third by dividing a doubleheader with Minneapolis, losing the opener 11 to 9, and taking the second, 5 to 2.

St. Paul with Walter Betts pitching steady baseball, shutout Kansas City, 5 to 0, in their final meeting of the campaign.

SEES SAFETY DEVICE AS AID TO AVIATORS

Local Inventor Says Equipment Would Help in Rescue of Fliers.

Willy Rody, Christian Johannsen and Fernando Costa Viega, three fliers who were virtually pulled from their graves when rescued Monday afternoon off the coast of Newfoundland by the freighter Belmoira, would have been rescued hours and possibly days before had their improvised raft been equipped with a device invented and patented by a Marion man, in the opinion of E. P Silverthorn of 232 south Vine street, the inventor.

News dispatches told how the fliers sighted a boat, but failed to attract attention of any one on board, and how the men nearly gave up hope when they saw the ship pass over the horizon without coming to their rescue. Many fliers lost at sea might have been rescued if their planes had carried the signal, Silverthorn believes.

The device is believed by Silverthorn to be the most practical yet developed for aviators, stranded on either land or water, to use as a distress signal. It consists of a kite, and a smoke torch or flare. The kite can be flown from wreckage a small raft or a plane on the water. The torch is mounted on the kite string and is carried up to a point near the kite where it can be seen for many miles.

The torch for use in day time, and flare for use at night can be replenished, giving the stranded aviator an opportunity to send a signal to any ship passing within many miles.

Silverthorn obtained a patent on the device in 1923. It rolls into a compact bundle weight between 15 and 20 pounds. The inventor formerly was associated with the Marion Lumber Co

"There It Is—That Is the Very Room That I Shall See!"

"The advertisement here says that it is in a modern home, in the part of town that I want, and the price is right. Believe me, reading the classified section has walking or driving all over town looking for quarters beat a mile. No wonder persons who advertise in The Star receive such prompt results, it is so much easier responding to a classified advertisement than any other form of announcement."

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

While no marked advance in prices are anticipated, it is not expected that the season will again see a surplus of peaches on the markets. Continued cooler weather may, dealers say, bring in larger shipments from the northern Ohio orchards. The warm weather together with the low prices has made profits impossible on shipped in fruit.

Dealers were carrying a few bushels today that were selling at from 60 to 75 cents. Growers continue to ask around 60 cents. Watermelons, while plentiful throughout the country, have not been plentiful on the markets, what were being carried were selling at from 10 to 20 cents. Muskmelons continue plentiful and are selling as low as six for 25 cents.

While growers continue to offer tomatoes at 50 cents a bushel, dealers are holding at their price of 75 cents. The supply on the markets today was not large. Green beans for canning were selling at 75 cents a bushel and potatoes as low as 75 cents a bushel. Pumpkins have made their appearance and are selling at from 10 to 20 cents. Onions were being offered at 60 cents a bushel and sweet potatoes at 10 pounds for 25 cents.

GRAINS MOVE IN DOWNTREND

Severe Pound Sterling Setbacks Reacts Against Prices at Chicago.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Sept. 25—Severe new setbacks in sterling exchange pulled grain prices downward here early today. Liverpool wheat quotations, in terms of British currency, were higher, but the advance there was more than offset by the acute weakness of sterling which showed the American money equivalent had been slashed. Opening ⅝@1¼ cents down, Chicago wheat sagged further, and then rallied. Corn started ⅛@⅝ off and later held near to the initial figures, with September at a new low for the season.

Sudden rallies from early downturns both in wheat and corn accompanied buying based partly on widespread rains likely to delay harvesting of corn. Relative firmness of securities at this time counted also as a bullish factor in grains. Furthermore, comparisons with a month back were circulated tending to show that grains had finished deflation ahead of stocks.

A leading grain expert said it was almost useless to have an opinion on the wheat market under present conditions but that wheat prices were fully deflated, and with anything like an improvement in the financial situation wheat would advance. He added that it was certainly advisable not to press the selling side on breaks. The reason given was that the market could turn very quickly, and that offerings would be very light on any show of strength. Corn and oats swayed with wheat.

Provisions reflected down turns in hog values.

CLUB STARTS DRIVE AT LUNCHEON MEET

Debate Held at Kiwanis Meeting; Purposes of Organization Discussed.

A debate, "Resolved: That membership in the Kiwanis club is beneficial," marked the weekly luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Marion club yesterday and was the opening gun in a membership campaign to be launched by the club members.

With H. F. Marqwarth, Leonard Young and C. H. Faust presiding as judges, the question was presented by Attorney John Clark representing the affirmative and Ray Fletcher the negative. The affirmative won by a unanimous vote.

The program was in charge of Fred Wadsworth, chairman of the membership committee, and included, beside the debate, short talks by President A. C. Queen and C. F. Bronson on what the club stands for, what it has accomplished and what it hopes to accomplish in the future.

Three vocal solos by William T. Dowler accompanied on the piano by his father, Jesse T. Dowler, provided variety to the program. Dowler took as his first number, "Where'er You Walk," by Handel. The second number was "In the Time of Roses," by Louise Reichardt and the third number "Snowy-Breasted Pearl," by Robinson.

WOMAN IS FREED OF LIQUOR CHARGE

Anna Gululzo of Kenton avenue, arrested on a charge of illegal possession of intoxicating liquor when state prohibition men and local police found a one gallon bottle containing a small amount of liquor in the yard of the rear of her home on Sept. 2 was found not guilty by Municipal Judge W. R. Martin yesterday afternoon. The prosecution was unable to prove the liquor was the property of the prisoner.

Attorney Frank Wiedemann, who represented Mrs. Gululzo, declared it would establish a dangerous precedent and might encourage the "planting" of liquor by enemies if a charge of guilty would be returned where the only evidence was the finding of a bottle of liquor in a person's yard.

AUTO DRIVER SUED FOLLOWING WRECK

Frank Culich of Chicago, whose automobile was wrecked in a collision with a machine being driven by H. E. Williams of 433 Davids street on the Harding highway west of here early yesterday morning, was made defendant in a damage suit brought by Williams in municipal court yesterday afternoon.

Williams, who charges in his petition that Culich was driving at a high rate of speed and was straddling the white line in the middle of the road, asks $100.25 for damages to his machine. The Williams car sustained a broken left wheel and crushed fenders while the Culich car was wrecked almost beyond repair.

Maxie Welch, star quarterback at Clemson, out for the football season, expects to re-enter school the second semester.

Should Marion county receive from the new forms of taxes more money than is needed to make up the loss caused by exempting certain classifications of property, the surplus will be turned over to the state treasurer, to be applied to counties where the new sources of revenue did not make up the loss, according to the county auditor. If the new tax laws fail to raise in Marion county sufficient money to match the revenue raised in 1930 by taxing property which will be exempt next year, the surplus from new taxes in other counties will be applied here, under an equalization plan.

Checking Possible Loss

The auditor and his assistants are now busy computing the proportion of loss from exempted property each subdivision will sustain in 1932, and preparing to reimburse these subdivisions with an amount equal to the loss.

The $10,512,673 loss in taxable property of the county under the new law is made up of the complete exemption of motor vehicles, household goods, musical instruments, money, credits, bonds and and stocks and annuities, and the partial exemption of other items, all of which were taxed at the full rate in previous years. Raw materials, tools and machinery used in manufacturing, farm tools and machinery, farm produce, livestock and "other personal property" will be taxed at 50 per cent their true value, and merchandise will be taxed at 70 per cent of its value.

MAN AND WIFE SUE FOR $550 DAMAGES

Oak Street Resident Named Defendant After Accident.

Mike Ciraml of 381 Oak street, was made defendant in two damage cases filed in municipal court yesterday afternoon. Harry Lehman of 120 Latourette street and his wife, Lula Lehman, both brought action against Ciraml for injuries received when their automobile, they charge, was struck by a machine being driven by Ciraml. They also ask for damages to the automobile whose value is now estimated at $5 by Lehman in his petition.

Lehman asks $50 damages for injuries to his right knee, a cut in the back and other bruises and Mrs. Lehman $500 for a number of cuts about the face and the shock to her nervous system.

The accident, it is charged in the petition, occurred on the Harding highway W. on June 7 when the car occupied by the Lehmans was sideswiped by the Ciraml car and thrown into the ditch. Ciraml, they charge, was driving at a high rate of speed while they were going between 20 and 25 miles an hour and in attempting to pass them, he came too close, catching their fenders

"More genuine satisfaction than any car I ever owned"

THE FORD is good-looking. It is safe. Comfortable. Speedy. Reliable. Long-lived. Economical. Everything a good car should be.

There is, too, an added something about it that brings enthusiastic comments from every one who has ever driven a Ford . . . the joy it puts in motoring.

"I have been a car owner continuously for nearly 20 years," writes a motorist connected with a leading university. "During this period I have bought eleven new automobiles. Eight of the eleven were in the middle-price field, one cost three thousand dollars, and the last is a Ford coupe that I purchased thirteen months ago.

"In the light of this experience I can say in all sincerity that I have derived more genuine satisfaction from the Ford than any car I ever owned. In saying this, I am thinking in terms of comfort, safety, driving pleasure, and dependability and economy. My next car will be a Ford because it will give me what I want in a car at the price I can afford to pay."

When you get behind the wheel of a Ford and drive it yourself, you will discover for yourself the reasons why Ford ownership is increasing by leaps and bounds. . . . the lowest-priced, high-quality car. After thousands of miles of driving you will still say "It's a great car." You will be able to look back over the years you have owned a good many different cars and say honestly that you have never owned a finer car than a Ford.

Daily Proverb—"Every man is to be envied who is fortunate with his children."

Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, addressed a large gathering at Moscow in that state, Thursday. Moscow! How appropr'ate!

"Farm Bureau's Chiefs Demand Equalizing Fee"—Headline over a Chicago story. If it isn't one old thing to raid the public treasury, it's sure to be another.

The department of labor in Washington announces that the cost of living has decreased 11.7 per cent since 1929. That reads good to the most of us, even though there may be a pinch in it for the producer.

The city of Fostoria has appealed to the state supreme court in its effort to get out of employing a public health nurse. Can it be that Fostoria is so healthy that they have no use for one up there?

The International Congress of Archaeology and Anthropology, in session in Paris, announces that primitive man is further removed from the ape than has been hitherto believed. Aha! Tennessee may yet be absolutely vindicated!

The state conservation commission has started an intensive campaign against the use of silencers on guns while hunting. Why a silencer on any gun? Is it not an admission of intent to make illegal use of a firearm?

The Chicago News reports that war has broken out in the city's underworld and that members of the Capone gang are using each other for targets. That's our idea of another thing not worth worrying about.

The school specialists of the federal department of education attacks small high schools in rural districts, holding them responsible for the wasting of money. So far as that goes, some high schools outside small rural districts may be equally at fault.

Over in New Jersey, a sub-contractor has been jailed for failing to pay a $50 fine for failure to pay a workman $50 wages. It may be noted that the wage-earner isn't always the under dog, as is so often claimed, when he appears in court. As a matter of fact, there are many laws for his protection from which the rich are barred.

Warned by a second illness since he took over the position, Lord Byng of Vimy has announced that he will retire as head of London's police department at the end of the present month. One never can tell, but the city of London probably will experience difficulty in finding a successor with the personality and ability essential to working so effectively for the betterment of its department.

Mrs. Owen's Condemned Idea.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, congressman from Florida's Fourth district, would have child care and education in the United States placed in charge of a new federal department. "Uncle Sam needs a wife" is her way of putting it.

Here is the issue of the child and the state all wrapped up and ready for presentation when the legislative desk has been cleared of problems demanding instant attention. Mrs. Owen's proposal covers all the ground.

Its introduction, however, is being made at an unfortunate time. This week, President Hoover declared flatly for federal economy. He favors the most drastic economy in every non-vital branch, which definitely closes the way for creation of a new department at this time.

There is, furthermore, a definite feeling against increasing bureaucracy in government. There is a suspicion, constantly being strengthened by new evidence, that federal departments have grown unwieldy, that some of them are working furiously in a sort of revolving cage of so-called governmental service, turning out material of no use to any one but themselves. It is this sort of thing which the public blames, in part, for mounting taxation.

The case against federal usurpation of what should be states' rights, moreover, is receiving considerable attention right now. And promises to be an important matter in the coming presidential campaign. A federal department of education, if it were to be anything more than a distributor of readerless publicity, would engage in immediate tussles with forty-eight state departments of education, and the many champions thereof.

No, Mrs. Owen's conception of a department of child welfare and education where the feminine touch could be laid on thick and heavy under a coating of bureaucratic invisibility will not blossom in reality until Uncle Sam has money to throw away, taxpayers urging him to throw it, and a public clamoring for governmental meddling in affairs where it is not welcome. And that will be a long time hence.

What Does France Want?

There is no use denying that national attitudes represent the sum of popular feeling stored up during long periods. The United States is overly friendly to Great Britain, for instance, because people in Ohio, New Mexico, Wisconsin, Alabama and the other states are friendly to Great Britain. By the same token, the United States is less friendly, though no less considerate, where diplomatic dealings with France are involved. There is not the same friendly feeling toward France among the people.

Language, misunderstanding concerning armaments, war debts and a general suspicion that French look upon Americans as being culturally infer'or, are chiefly responsible for the lack of over-friendliness in the popular attitude. Americans are openly suspicious of everything France suggests or accomplishes, and their suspicion is duplicated in France, judging by evidence that comes easily to hand.

It would be advantageous if this suspicious attitude could be forgotten when Pierre Laval, premier of France, visits the United States next month as now appears probable. There is much to be gained from his visit that might be hastened by a friendly attitude on the part of his hosts. If character sketches of M. Laval may be trusted, he himself will do much to insp're such an attitude. He is a mild-mannered man of the people, sure of his opinions, but not given to impressing them harshly on others.

In his conversations with Pres'dent Hoover and members of the cabinet, Premier Laval will touch upon three subjects, in all probabil ity. As a high off'cial of the nation which, together with the United States, holds the favorable balance of the world's gold supply, he will discuss ways and means of working the gold standard. He will talk about war debts and reparations, and he will talk about the political stabilization of Europe. France and the United States, the world's two creditor nations, have an obligation to work together harmoniously for international solvency, stability and peace. Throughout, it will be M. Laval's purpose to create a more favorable attitude toward France. At the same time, President Hoover and his cabinet will be working to create, among the French, a more favorable attitude toward the United States.

Another French visitor this fall will be Marshal Phillippe Petain, of World War fame. He will try to set aside certain misconceptions concerning French armaments by showing Americans that France, wounded deeply by war, is intensely pacific, that its armaments are intended to secure peace permanently. The messages that these two eminent Frenchmen will bring to the United States deserve careful and sympathetic attention from the people.

A New Factor in Armaments.

The successful maiden flight of the U. S. S. Akron, Wednesday afternoon, makes the ship an object of international attention. Presuming that the remainder of the test flights will be successful, the Akron now is an important factor in this nation's armaments.

Great Britain, which built two huge Zeppelins and lost one of them on its first important flight, drops behind the United States in lighter-than-air strength. The Akron is larger than the R-100, the remaining British ship. This country also possesses the Los Angeles, constructed in Germany and delivered here under a reparations agreement.

Germany, whose famous Graf Zeppelin has circled the world and traveled tens of thousands of miles safely, shares American enthusiasm over lighter-than-air travel—in fact, is responsible for most of it. German-born and German trained Zeppelin experts helped design and construct the Akron. The Zeppelin is a German idea. It is fitting that all aircraft of the type should be named in honor of their inventor, Count von Zeppelin.

France, wh'ch is experimenting with rigid airships of small size, and Italy, which will not be outdone by France in the development of defensive equipment, have no large ships. Neither does the remaining world power, Japan. They, more than England and Germany, will watch closely the flights of the Akron to determine its power as a factor in national armaments. It is well to remember that Germany already is constructing another Zeppel'n which will be larger than the Akron—the "Flying Fortress" of the United States navy. Peace may be the mood, but the construction of armaments never hesitates.

The fact that a Brooklyn strike-breaker realized a $500,000 return in one year has been brought out by a tax suit instituted by the government. Talking about get-rich-quick schemes this one isn't half bad.

A New York police captain, demoted from deputy chief inspector to the command of a precinct station has revealed an alliance between Tammany and the city's gamblers. There's always danger in discarding tools which have been utilized in crookedness.

Why Meddle in Manchuria?

"America moves for peace in Manchuria dispute."

The response to that information is: Why? Why should this nation's state department trouble itself over what both Japan and China say is a "local disturbance on the continent of Asia"?

The answer is necessarily vague. The public never has been given any specific reasons. It recognizes a certain obligation placed on all signatories of the Paris peace pact to preserve a state of peace, and it remembers that the United States, fulfilling that obligation, "moved for peace" in the dispute between China and Russia two years ago. Still, there exists a certain amount of doubt as to why this nation should be the spokesman for the fourteen other nations which signed the Paris peace pact three years ago.

This doubt is settled only in part by the realization that the United States has come to have great diplomatic influence by reason of recent economic and political adjustments in the international structure. Possession of the influence implies the right to exercise it. Hence a local quarrel in Manchuria, viewed in some quarters as unwarranted aggression by Japan, and in others as a dispute of far less international consequence, draws diplomatic fire from the United States state department.

HOW LONG WILL THE STRONGEST NATION ON EARTH SUBMIT TO THIS?

Editorial Opinion.

FORGETFULNESS IN THE FAR EAST.

In view of recent disputes between Japan and China, involving interpretations of treaties dealing with trade in Manchuria, with the rights of Japanese settlers in that rich province and with the South Manchurian railroad, not to mention the clashes between Chinese and Japanese in Korea, the bombardment and seizure by Japanese forces of Mukden the ancient Manchurian capital, is not particularly surprising. A more perplexing and disturbing development is the landing of Japanese troops in Tsingtao, on the Shantung peninsula, in China proper.

One thing is painfully clear. Neither the League of Nations covenant nor the Briand-Kellogg war-renunciation treaty visibly embarrasses Japan in its warlike activities on Chinese soil. True, the latter instrument contains no express provision for moral intervention, or even for admonition and reminder by neutral signatories. But the covenant provides for emergency action by the council of the league and for suitable recommendations to league members.

Japan and China accuse each other of taking aggressive steps in disregard to treaty obligations. Which of the disputants is innocent and which is guilty of wrongful acts, or reprehensible omissions, fraught with peril to peace, if they be not equally blameworthy, is not readily determined at this distance. But one can not escape the melancholy conclusion that neither Japan nor China has sought sincerely to adjust the existing controversies by peaceful conference, mediation or arbitration. Neither appears to have taken its peace pledges seriously.

Obviously, solemn agreements honored in the breach by some signatories will not long command respect, anywhere.—Chicago News.

ONE WHO LOVED HIS FELLOWMEN.

The death of David Starr Jordan strikes from the active roll of American scholarship another of its foremost names. The statement that he had lived "three full lives" was once elucidated by Dr. Jordan: "I have been a naturalist and explorer in one, a teacher and finally president of Stanford university in another and I have worked in the cause of international peace in a third."

Author of many learned words, a man upon whom universities fought for the privilege of conferring their most coveted degrees, adviser and instructor of youth on campuses all over the country, what Dr. Jordan appears to have been proudest of all of was his efforts in the direction of bringing peace to the earth and good will to the nations. Yet deeply as he loved peace, Dr. Jordan refused to go to Europe on "peace ship" during the World war, a venture he regarded as Quixotic, and strongly supported his country's war policies, after it was embarked in the struggle.

After living "three full lives," was it surprising that Dr. Jordan, as he approached four score years, was wont to say "I am ready for death when it comes." At the end of a life so full of service to his fellowmen he did not fear to face whatever might lie beyond the grave. Abou ben Adhem's modest prayer may well have been his.—Detroit Free Press.

From Our Readers.

A CITIZEN'S VIEW.

Editor Star—Why not a commissary to provide for our unfortunate needy, purchase in quantities at wholesale prices and distribute food supplies from one center?

Why not purchase as much as possible from our local farmers? Farmers are of the city's best customers. Why not give them now the consideration that is due them? Likely too, were this done many of them would contribute something gratis.

Why not dispense with at least a part of the activities of the Y. M. C. A., use that building and its force for the commissary and its work? Character building is a noble thing, but just now there is work to be done which we believe is just as important, if not more so, where the Y. M. C. A. could and should render valuable service. This would save considerable expense and would relieve a lot of people of a feeling of resentment now quite prevalent that high priced people are being employed in relief work.

With this plan we could reduce food costs materially. Hardly any one will question that the present system of dispensing or providing food for needs is unnecessarily expensive. And we believe it is up to every citizen to do everything possible to make every penny that is provided for charity go just as far as possible.

"Swallowing" Accidents.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

In your childhood it is probable you swallowed some object which should never have entered your mouth. This may have been a penny or a pin. Whatever it was, I am quite sure the incident aroused much excitement and alarm in your family.

Such accidents are of daily occurrence. In most instances, fortunately, the accident is not as alarming as it seems to the layman. The child usually expels the swallowed object and suffers no ill effects from the experience.

However, in many cases it is a serious thing. It is really dangerous when the swallowed object lodges in the windpipe, instead of entering the stomach. Indeed, in some cases, the object may reach the lung.

These accidents can and should be avoided. Many a mother in dressing her infant or older child places safety pins and other objects in her mouth.

Children who see their mothers do this, frequently get the absurd notion that that is where such things belong. On finding a pin or other small object, it goes at once into the little mouth.

Mothers should refrain from using the mouth as a receptacle for such things. It is a practice that encourages bad habits. By good example and proper teaching, children will learn that nothing but food belongs in the mouth.

By the way, another careless habit of adults as well as children, is that of hasty eating and improper chewing of food. On Fridays, when fish is a popular dish, there is always a flow of patients to nearby clinics and emergency rooms. The doctors are busy removing fish bones from the throat.

This accident is a dangerous one and sometimes requires quite an extensive operation for the removal of the bone. It can be prevented by the training of children in the importance of slow eating and careful chewing of all foods. This deliberate chewing is particularly important in foods containing bones.

It is interesting to learn that bones and other objects removed from the throat occur, in almost eighty per cent. of cases, in women. Perhaps that is due to their better table manners with the natural desire not to use their fingers in removing foreign substances from the mouth. But, really, it is better to fail a bit in etiquette than to go to the hospital for relief.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

E.O.W. Q.—What is the cause and what will relieve stinging and creeping in the toes? It is very annoying.

A.—These symptoms are probably due to a circulatory disturbance. Be sure that your shoes are not too tight and that your stockings are the right size. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

* * *

R.W.K. Q.—Are headaches caused by eye strain or stomach upset?

A.—Either may be responsible. It would be wise to have an examination, including an eye test.

* * *

C.A.F. Q.—What causes me to be dizzy all the time and feel sick?

A.—This may be due to "biliousness." Correct your diet, avoiding an excess of sweets, starches, coffee and tea. Eat plenty of fresh and stewed fruits, fresh vegetables and whole wheat bread.

* * *

A.C.W. Q.—Is there any way in which the sight can be improved without resorting to the use of glasses? I am near-sighted—one eye being more affected than the other.

A.—No, you probably need glasses. See an eye specialist and be guided by his judgment and advice.

"WORRIED." Q.—What causes ringing in the ears and head noises?

A.—This is often due to nasal catarrh which has extended to the middle ear. — Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The Cost of Arms.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

There was never a time in world history when the minds of men were so constantly turned to the discussion of peace, as they are at the present time. The horrors of the World war are still vividly remembered, and many people believe that another war, on the same scale and with new modes of destruction far more deadly than before, will result in the virtual wiping out of civilization. It has been less than eleven years since the conclusion of the World war. A League of Nations is an accomplished fact, and a World court is actively functioning. Various treaties, notably the Kellogg treaty, have been negotiated, aiming directly toward peace. Two great conferences, one in Washington and the other in London, have been held, for the express purpose of limitation and reduction of armament. Pres'dent Hoover recognized the burden of competitive armaments in bringing about a worldwide economic depression, in making his proposal of a moratorium. He has recognized and proclaimed the need for armament limitation as being the most pressing and indispensable of all needs at the present time.

Despite all these patent and acknowledged facts, the competitive race in armaments goes on at a pace which is enough to alarm and depress the world's statesmen and rulers. It is appalling to consider the vast economic waste involved in these mighty preparations. Were these huge sums, running up into the billions annually, to be expended upon the art of peace, no one can doubt that the world would be well off today instead of bowed down by the weight of debt and economic loss.

It is not to be denied that the elaborate preparation for armament produces not balance, but instability, not assurance, but uncertainty. The nations themselves, through their responsible leaders acknowledge the desirability of disarmament, yet no statesman has yet put forward what appears to be a feasible program for disarming.

The figures are appalling. The greatest expenditure is made by the British empire, including Great Britain and all her colonies, approximately $725,000,000. The country which comes next, despite an absurdly small standing army, is the United States, with approximately $700,000,000. Russia comes third with some $575,000,000 and France fourth with about $465,000,000. During the last fiscal year according to the figures compiled by the World Peace foundation, sixty nations have expended $4,168,000,000!—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

An Owl That Was Not Wise.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Among the mementoes of the days when she was living in the White House, that Mrs. Rutherford B. Hayes brought to her home in Fremont when her husband retired to private life in 1881 was a small owl, mounted by a Washington taxidermist, which was given a place of honor over the hall clock at Spiegel Grove. It was a reminder of an important work that President Hayes took upon himself when he became president.

The Washington monument had been halted at the height of less than 150 feet because it was found that the foundations were not strong enough to bear additional weight. The unfinished monument had stood in that condition for several years. President Hayes caused the army engineers to take up the matter and recommend a plan by which it could be safely completed. They did so, and proposed that a new foundation be placed under the monument, which they said could be done without razing it.

Shoring up large structures was a rare thing in those days, and the work as it proceeded attracted much attention. Both President Hayes and Mrs. Hayes were frequent visitors to the monument to see the work as it proceeded. In order to detect any developing weakness with accompanying danger to the monument, the engineers had installed a delicate recording instrument near the top of the structure. One morning it was found that a record of violent swaying of the monument had been made and the superintendent hurriedly inquired of the astronomical observatory whether there had been any earthquake vibrations during the night. The seismograph had no such tale to tell.

Then some of the engineers entered the monument and ascended to the top where they found that a small owl had established its home. In flying about it had come into contact with this apparatus and caused the record as of swaying to be made. The owl was shot to prevent further interference and this was the specimen that was given to Mrs. Hayes because of her interest in the success of the work.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Sept. 25 — You can tell 'em by their auto license tag in the capital city of the United States.

If you rate, then your number is low.

The social and official character of Washington is revealed in the allocation of automobile tags, to a greater extent perhaps, than in any other city of the country.

The low numbers are for the privileged. If you are high, then socially and officially you are classed below those with low numbers.

Thus the tags for 1932 are distributed:

No. 1, the vice president of the United States.

No. 2, the speaker of the house of representatives.

And so on—

* * *

White House cars usually are tagged from 100 to 110. Members of the President's cabinet follow.

Other numbers up to 1,000 are held by senators, representatives, subordinate government officials, ex-government officials of all varieties, presumably distinguished private citizens and any one else who has enough pull to get one.

These "privileged" tags have no accompanying letter. All other numbers are preceded by a letter and run from 1 on up.

Inside the limits of the first group of the unlettered 1,000 there are of course individuals of special and super-special privileges.

Members of the diplomatic corps, for example, and members of congress are some of these.

In addition to these privileged low numbers, their tags bear identifications "diplomatic" and "congressional."

Members of the diplomatic corps, under the law of "diplomatic immunity," escape arrest by Washington policemen. "Congressional" usually permits freedom as well.

Under a new traffic act the 1932 tags carry a color scheme of red, white and blue. They are the first of their kind. The plate has a white background. The border and "1932" are in blue. The number itself and designation are in red.

* * *

There have been some famous Capital city tag numbers which have made the automobiles of celebrities easily identified as they passed along the streets.

The late Chief Justice Taft's limousine for years was No. 50.

The late Nick Longworth preferred No. 52.

Justice McReynolds of the supreme court for a long time had No. 67. Incidentally he owns an open roadster which he drives himself. He wears a leather coat in cold weather.

Scientific Notes.

Operated by compressed air, a machine has been invented by a California man to apply plaster to walls.

Japan exports approximately eighty-two per cent. of its production of raw silk and about eighty-seven per cent. of its silk textiles.

Columbia university has begun a survey to learn how the graying of human hair is affected by age, sex and occupation.

The doors of an enclosed motor truck invented by a resident of Portland, Oregon, swing downward to form runways to facilitate loading.

The flight was a continuation of the maiden cruise Wednesday, and completed the first of five designed to test every detail and insure perfection of construction before acceptance of the dirigible by the navy

In the face of a stiff wind aloft, the flying sailors wore their fur-lined coats Official passengers donned topcoats for the voyage The ship's heating system, developed from the exhaust of her engines was not turned on

The airship cruised at various speeds, never traveling faster than 80 miles an hour

MINISTER FREED OF IMMORALITY CHARGE

Jury of Churchmen Finds Washington Pastor "Absolutely Innocent."

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept 25—Absolved of a charge of immorality Rev. William A Shelton was back today in his study at the Mount Vernon place Methodist Episcopal church South

A jury of 12 clergymen unanimously voted him 'absolutely innocent'" late yesterday of accusations of misconduct toward his former secretary, Miss Carrie A Williams The nature of the charge, which has been withheld during a three-day church trial in Alexandria, Va., was revealed by Dr W S Hammond, of Martinsburg W Va

The trial committee acted while Shelton's supporters denounced the anonymous circulation to newspapers of a paper purporting to be a copy of an "apology" by the clergyman to the secretary The incident brought from Hammond the statement that Shelton did sign a statement concerning the incident on which the specifications of the charge were based.

"But it was secured under such duress ' said Hammond, "that it had no weight whatever"

Today—the thirty-first wedding anniversary of the quiet Sheltons—about 95 per cent of his flock were ready to celebrate his vindication and begin a campaign to bring back to the fold about 200 members of the church who split when the charges were brought out publicly

MARION LADY PRAISES TON-GEE VERY HIGHLY

Unable To Do Ordinary Work Around House; Praises TON-GEE Now.

"I think TON-GEE is a wonderful preparation, in fact I think so well of it that I am unable to say enough in its favor.

MRS. CHAS. LUSK, 396 Silver St.

"Until two weeks ago I suffered for more than two years with sharp pains in my back, shoulders, neck and hips. These pains were so severe that when I got up in the mornings I was so tired and worn out that I felt like I had not been in bed at all. Morning after morning I would be unable to get my husband's breakfast or even do the small household duties around the house simply, because of the severe pains I had.

"I also was highly nervous and my liver was all upset. Added to this was the general weakened condition of my stomach and bowels. I can't explain the terrible feeling that I constantly had. It certainly was discouraging.

"I heard some of the wonderful remarks about TON-GEE that it was an excellent remedy for these ailments that I was bothered with. Finally I decided to give it a fair trial and my how glad I am that I did! Almost all the aches and pains are gone and I am now feeling fine. TON-GEE certainly has done wonders for me and it gives me great pleasure to recommend TON-GEE to anyone."

This is what Mrs. Chas. Lusk wrote us. Do you suffer because of any of the ailments mentioned by Mrs. Lusk? If so, why continue to suffer? Take TON-GEE to get back to normal and ENJOY GOOD HEALTH.

TON-GEE is sold in Marion at the STUMP & SAMS DRUG STORE—Adv.

JEFFERSON COUNTY PARTY DISPUTE ENDS

Republican Chairman Recognizes One Faction in Election Board Case.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 25—The Republican factional dispute in Jefferson county is settled so far as Edward D. Schorr, chairman of the party's state central committee, is concerned.

After conferring by telephone with other committee members, Schorr announced last night he would call no meeting to adjudicate the Jefferson county election board contest and that the state body would recognize the faction headed by De Witt Erskine of Steubenville as the bona fide county executive committee in the matter of indorsements.

The dispute was submitted to the state committee by secretary of State Clarence J. Brown, who had been advised that two party groups had recommended candidates to fill vacancies, resulting from the resignation of the election board which had been accused of erratic handling of registration cards in last year's primary election.

"We have decided," Schorr said in a letter to Brown, "to stand by our action of a year ago in recognizing the Erskine committee as the rightful group." This recognition was accorded on September 11, 1930, when the state committee approved the claim of Erskine delegates to seats in the state convention over the protest of the Winkelman faction.

Schorr's announcement caused considerable gossip at the capital, and some political dopesters interpreting it to mean he wished to avoid a state committee meeting at this time.
